FULL FREQUENCY STEREOPHONIC FREAKOUT!

After a short, quiet spell, people started asking around; "Hey, whatever happened to these guys, The Smell of Mutiny? They were the hippest faces around, with their flashy grey suits, slick moves and shiny shoes. When I saw them on stage, their act was all over the place! I tell you, best rhythm & blues stompin' since Eric quit the Yardbirds."

Some said; "Heard their bass player, the tall guy with the groovy hair, took a move to the east to find his inner self. Just him and his sitar."

"Well, I heard they're still cooking. They even made a new single before the tall guy split."

"Who told you that?"

"Nah, one of the faces took his Vespa down to practice lot the other day, heard the most out of sight sounds. Had to be them, he said, still on top."

"I've heard they've started singing in French - with a harpsichord and all sorts of far out sounds. You know, like them Beatles did last year."

"Guys! Have you heard the news!? They're coming to town, they're back!"

"Huh?"

"The Smell of Mutiny! They're playing again, and there's even a new 7" in the works, with the most spectacular sound of our time!"

"Bleeding bullocks, you're full of crap, Paul."

"No, no! They're coming, I'm tellin' you! Stevie just told me, down at the pub!"

"Stevie's the biggest face in town! Gotta be true then! Gotta be..."
